

studio 303

January 13th, 2023

Dear friends,

'Tis winter at last! Which means it's time to plan ways to come together, move and find inspiration, potentially with us at Studio 303.

This week, we are hosting the last of four Winter residencies! Holly Timpener and Tess Martens are constructing sleds they will queerly race with, encouraging failure and friendly competition; Dorian Nuskind-Oder and Simon Grenier-Poirier tested a robot-prototype and improvising with two dancers and a floating structure; 7Starr rediscovers his journey with Krump in a duet called Retraced; Sophia Wright and Alida Esmail explored a cross-cultural collaboration with ASL artist Hodan Youssouf.

In the coming months, artists can hone their practice in our professional workshops and get support with their funding requests via our Grant Labs and a Grant Spa. Of course, the coldest month of February will have some of the coziest, heart warming gatherings at Queer Performance Camp. Justin de Luna and Winnie Ho are curating their 3rd edition - finally in person!

Want to move your body soon? Everyone - artists and general public alike - is welcome to our Free Dance Class Day (Sunday, Jan. 15th) to sample our evening classes which start on January 23rd! We also hope to see you at our dancing 5@7 Sans Souliers - all ages “basement music” with DJ Mim (aka our codirector Miriam)!

Finally, do you remember Remix? Bigico liked it so much they are making a contemporary jig version of it! Come see the results at Studio 303 on March 24th or 25th.

Hoping these activities accompany you this season,
We'd love for you to taste some, if not all of them!

2023 Blessings ✨

- 303 team
